What If:

If I was the first person to land on the planet Mars, I would need a special suit to be able to tolerate the coldness. The planet is really red. I found something that looks like big sticky green aliens on Mars. When I left, the mysterious creature it started to follow me so I ran as fast as I could and then I finally lost him. I even found some kind of plant that was 10 ft. tall and was very sharp. I also found some dust that looks like little carrots. After, I made some cheese sticks out of Martian soil. When I was headed back to my space ship I saw a river that was dried up. Maybe there was a river here once and the sun dried it up. Then I went back to my space ship and headed back to Earth.
